general requirements must be tailored to specific agency

made a final wrap-up pointing out:

--Namy of the individual agency requirements were the same or similar and were truly interdepartmental in nature. (He used the term "national".)

--Present systems are limited for use in catastrophies.

--Can start a mini-program for use of imagery
if agencies would now put 20 people each into the effort (with clearances).

--Nould like non-USIB representation in sanitization.

--ARGO Steering Committee
should be point of contact with intelligence community on requirements.

ended the meeting with these points:

Agencies should help in sanitization.

Agencies must translate general requirements into specific requirements.

If agencies can't count people to the effort it opens their requirements priority to question in his mind.

Recognized the problem of specific requirements hest handled in field, but most of such people were uncleared.

Next step is briefing of an selected personnel.
